Hemel.

Today, this morning, residents' houses were severely mutilated due to a colossal detonation at Buncefield oil depot. Fire fighters and police officers immediately rush to the scene to put the fire out and stop the fire raging on.

It was a regular Sunday morning when a huge explosion tore through the quiet, peaceful town of Hemel Hempstead. Locals were woken up with a start and were shocked to see their homes disfigured gravely. This calamity turned this quiet, peaceful town into a post apocalyptic world.

The inquiry, that is still continuing, believes that one of the many pipes in the system had a disastrous fault.

The vapor was lit by the warning light turned on by the guard that was there when the pipe failed. The explosion created a huge smog cloud that could be seen from space, and it travelled all the way to France

Mr Rodut, a community member, was quoted saying the blast was so loud it broke his hearing aid, his ears were buzzing all day!

"I couldn't believe my eyes when I saw the ball of fire!" Miss Neves was quoted.
