

Sutton Hoo Book

Sutton hoo is the site that is known for digging up artefacts
from the Anglo-Saxons times.

A helmet of a very rich
king was found at Sutton
hoo.

Other artefacts from other
kings were found.
Such as...

The background is a complex, abstract pattern of overlapping triangles and polygons in various shades of purple, ranging from light lavender to deep indigo. The shapes are irregular and create a sense of depth and movement.

The name of the king
was... Raedwald.

The king had a sword and
spear as well as a shield.

There were acient
things found aswell.

ROMAN MOUNDS OR BARROWS.—It is not known by many that not less than five Roman Barrows, lying close to each other, may be seen on a farm occupied by Mr. Barritt, at Sutton, about 500 yards from the banks of the Deben, immediately opposite Woodbridge. One of these mounds was recently opened, when a considerable number (nearly two bushels) of iron-screw bolts were found, all of which were sent to the blacksmith to be converted into horse shoes! It is hoped, when leave is granted to open the others, some more important antiquities may be discovered. These barrows were laid down in the Admiralty surveys by Captain Stanley during the stay of the Blazer, when taking the soundings of the above named river some few years since.

The model of the ship was then discovered in a chest full of sand.

-

Pictures of Sutton hoo artefacts and places.

-

Thank you for reading
this book!

-

Share with your friends and family!

P.S pictures
at next page!

-

-

Signed
krishan.

The
end!

Thank you
for reading!

This was made as a book
about sutton hoo

Tudor Primary Inc.